StudioCue — legal review pack for counsel

Prepared October 15, 2026 · FlawlessIQ LLC, 2 Green Village Rd, Suite 209, Madison, NJ 07940 (New Jersey) · support@studio-cue.com

1. What we are asking for StudioCue is software for wedding and event businesses: photographers and videographers, DJs, makeup artists, hair stylists and planners ("studios"). A studio runs its inquiries, quotes, contracts, e-signatures, payments, planning forms and crew in StudioCue. Its clients (couples and families) and its crew use a portal. StudioCue has no paying customers yet.

Everything in this pack is live at studio-cue.com and has not been reviewed by a lawyer. We would like you to:

1. Review our own legal set: Terms of Service, Privacy Policy, DPA and six more (Appendix A). It has been live since October 5, 2026.
2. Review the wording StudioCue writes into studios' contracts with their clients (Appendix C): starter agreements, Schedule A (event details), Schedule B (extra terms for some kinds of event), amendments.
3. Review the electronic-signature consent and process (Appendix B), and the two-signature "booking agreement" held back for your review.
4. Answer the questions in Section 3. Each one names the appendix with the text it is about.

Who is party to what. StudioCue (FlawlessIQ LLC) contracts with studios under the Terms. Each studio contracts with its own clients under the studio's own agreement. StudioCue is not a party to that agreement, but it supplies starting wording, adds schedules to it and runs the signing.

How your changes ship. Each document has a version. Your edits ship as the next version (Terms 1.1, Privacy 2.3 and so on). The Terms promise studios 30 days' email notice of a material change. A change to contract wording applies to agreements written after it, never to one already signed. A change to the e-signature consent becomes a new consent version, and each signature records the version its signer saw.

2. Decisions already made (please confirm or change)

Our legal set

- New Jersey law; Morris County courts / D.N.J.; jury waiver; no class actions; one-year limit on claims.
- Liability cap: fees paid in the prior 12 months, or $100 if greater.

- Refunds: none for partial periods. Annual plans are refundable in full within 14 days of the first annual charge.
- Failed payment: 7 days of full access, then read-only (view and export only). Client messages are held, not dropped.
- Cancellation: 30 days to export, deletion within 90 days (backups age out in 84).
- The DPA has no signature step; the Terms incorporate it by reference.
- AI: Gemini via Vertex AI in StudioCue's own Google Cloud project. No training on customer data. A person approves everything AI drafts before it is sent.

Contracts and signing

- StudioCue's own e-signature has been on for every studio since October 2, 2026, before this review.
- Schedule B (extra terms for a bar/bat mitzvah, a quinceañera or a Sweet 16) went live before this review, on October 14–15, 2026. It is added to the studio's own agreement and, where they conflict, it wins.
- Some kinds of job book with no signed agreement at all, and are paid in full at booking (table below). This was a product decision, to keep small family sessions simple.
- The two-signature "booking agreement" (Appendix B, part 3) is held until you have seen it. Only our own test studio has it.

3. Questions

A. Our legal set (Appendix A)

1. Courts or arbitration? Currently courts, with a jury waiver and a class waiver.
2. Automatic renewal. Do California, New York or other states need renewal reminders beyond Stripe's trial-ending email and our in-app notice three days before renewal?
3. DPA. Do larger or non-US studios need a separately signable DPA, or Standard Contractual Clauses?
4. Sales tax on the subscription (Stripe Tax is not on yet).
5. DMCA. Our agent is registered (DMCA-1081859). Is anything else needed for the safe harbor?
6. Studio referrals and partner payouts. Studios get a referral code and a one-off bill credit when studios they refer stay. Vendors can be given partner codes that earn payouts (we issue 1099s). Do these need written program terms, beyond what the Terms and Privacy Policy say now?

B. Electronic signatures (Appendix B)

7. Is consent version 2 acceptable as written?
8. "Has the same effect as a handwritten signature." Is that safe to say to consumers in the US, UK and EU, or should it be softened?
9. Scope. The consent covers this agreement and its signed copy only. Studios also email clients invoices, schedules and notices. Should those be in scope?
10. Version 1. One signature was given under it: our own internal test, with no real client. Anything to do differently if a real client ever signs under a version later found wanting?
11. Clients outside the US. Is anything required beyond this for UK and EU clients (simple electronic signature under eIDAS / the UK Electronic Communications Act 2000)? Or for specific US states?
12. Notice of changed requirements. Version 2 promises an email before any change that could stop someone opening their signed copy. Is that the right commitment, and how long after signing does it run?
13. Automatic studio signature. A studio owner can consent once to have their typed name applied automatically to each contract sent when a proposal is accepted (recorded as an "adopted signature"). Is that a valid signature for the studio?
14. Retention. We keep the signing record as long as the agreement. A studio can permanently delete a job, which deletes its signed agreement too (the client keeps their emailed copy). Should we enforce a minimum retention?

15. The studio's own agreement. Should studios' agreements carry their own clause about signing electronically, or is our consent screen enough?
16. E-signature live before review. Signing has been on for every studio since October 2. Is there anything we should do now about agreements already signed?
17. The two-signature booking agreement (Appendix B, part 3). The client signs the studio's terms (part 1) and then the pricing (part 2) in one sitting. Both signatures are saved or neither is, and the studio has already signed both parts. Is this sound? Should the client be able to accept the pricing without the terms, or the reverse? Is a "Request changes" button needed before we offer it?

C. Studios' agreements: the starters (Appendix C)

18. Blank sections. Each starter leaves cancellation, copyright/image use and liability for the studio to write. Should StudioCue offer suggested clauses, and with what disclaimer?
19. The DJ, beauty and planner starters. Please review them as you review the photographer's. The beauty starter leaves allergies, sensitive skin and patch tests for the studio to write: should StudioCue suggest wording there?
20. The corporate starter draft (Appendix C, part 7; not offered to studios yet) and the five questions at its end.
21. Schedule A says details "marked 'To be confirmed' are added when the final details are confirmed". For a wedding, a bar/bat mitzvah, a quinceañera, a Sweet 16 or a vow renewal it then locks the details (four weeks out by default) ("changes … are agreed with us in writing"). Is this enforceable as part of the signed agreement when the details are filled in after signing?
22. Amendments. A signed booking changes only through an amendment the client signs. The amendment restates the whole agreement. Is a full restatement the right form?

D. Schedule B: events with children (Appendix C, part 4)

These questions apply to all three Schedule Bs (bar/bat mitzvah, quinceañera, Sweet 16). They were written together and share their structure.

23. Precedence. "Where they differ from the terms above, these apply." Does this reliably override a conflicting clause in the studio's own agreement, such as a broad grant to use every image for advertising? Studios write their own agreements and we can't see every one. Should Schedule B name the clauses it overrides?
24. Images of children. The client is the honoree's parent. Is "unless the Client agrees in writing" enough for the honoree? Is it enough for other children at the event (a quinceañera's court, for example), whose parents are not parties? Should the studio need each child's parent's consent, or simply never use other children's images?
25. "Personal use." Does "the images delivered are for the family's personal use" conflict with a studio's copyright clause or its license to the client? Should it say "license" in so many words?
26. The house of worship. Is "not a shortfall" clear enough to stop a claim for services that the congregation's or parish's rules prevented? Should it also say the fee is unchanged?

27. Beauty services for minors. Is "a parent or guardian present" the right standard? Should the agreement ask about allergies, or require a patch test, for a minor?
28. Planners and supervision. Is the sentence "does not provide childcare" enough to keep a planner from being treated as responsible for child guests, including at a court's rehearsals?
29. Placement. Schedule B is added at the end, after Schedule A, as part of the signed document. Is a schedule the right form, or should these be numbered clauses in the body?
30. Shipped before review. Agreements carrying Schedule B may have been signed since October 14. If you change the wording, is anything needed for those agreements, or do new agreements simply use the new version?

E. Minors, and bookings with no agreement

31. Bookings with no agreement. First communions, confirmations, baptisms, prom getting-ready, family sessions and sports book with no signed agreement. The client accepts a quote and pays (in full at booking, or on the day for sports). Is accepting the quote and paying enough? Or should these clients accept short terms (images of children, cancellation, refunds) at booking? If so, what is the minimum?
32. Group sign-ups. A studio can offer a whole class (a First Communion), a team, or a group of friends (prom) a sign-up link. Each parent signs up their child and pays the studio directly (card, Venmo, Zelle or check), with no agreement. Is a notice on the sign-up page needed: what the studio may do with the photos, the refund policy, who the parent is dealing with?
33. Children's data. We create no child accounts and never message children; a parent or guardian is always the client. Children's names appear where a studio or parent types them (rosters, shot lists, the honoree's name on the job). Is our current wording enough under COPPA and state minors' privacy laws?
34. Prom. Many students are 17 or 18. Does an 18-year-old student booking their own hair or makeup change anything, given the parent is usually the client?

F. Data and privacy

35. Vendor network. When a studio shares a timeline with the other vendors a couple names, we may invite those vendors to try StudioCue. The invitation is a one-time offer in the same email. Their contact details came from the couple, through the studio. Does that make StudioCue a controller of that data? What needs to change in the Privacy Policy and DPA? Is our approach (a transactional email with a one-time offer, an opt-out and the postal address) right under CAN-SPAM?
36. Deleting invoice records. Studios can now bill clients themselves, without QuickBooks, and delete their invoice records. Do the Privacy Policy's and DPA's retention sections need to say so? Should we keep any minimum record?
37. Meeting summaries. Once Zoom approves our app, a studio will be able to have StudioCue read the summary of a consultation call with a client. Is any notice to the client needed (for example, in states that require every party's consent to recording)?

38. AI drafts sent by studios. Our assistant drafts replies and emails, and the studio approves each one before it is sent. Is anything needed beyond what the Terms and Privacy Policy say about AI?

4. What changed since the October 5 package

The October 5 package (v1) covered the legal set and the contract text as they were then. Since then:

- Privacy Policy 2.0 → 2.2 (October 7–8): signup attribution (how a studio found us), demo requests, and studio referral codes and credits.
- Cookie notice 1.0 → 1.1 (October 8).
- New trades with their own starter agreements: DJ, makeup, hair (October 8–9) and planner (October 12).
- New kinds of event: bar/bat mitzvah (October 14); quinceañera, Sweet 16, communion/confirmation/baptism, prom and vow renewal (October 15). Schedule B for the first three.
- Payment plans (a deposit, up to six installments, the balance) and studios billing clients themselves, with deletable invoice records (October 9–13).
- Vendor network (October 13): timelines shared with a couple's other vendors, and the one-time offer to them (question 35).

5. How to read the appendices

- Appendix A — our nine published legal documents, in full, as on the site.
- Appendix B — the e-signature consent (both versions), how signing works, what we record, and the two-signature booking agreement.
- Appendix C — the wording StudioCue puts into studios' contracts: starters, Schedule A, Schedule B by event and trade, amendments, pricing clauses, and the corporate draft.
- Appendix D — the notices people see at signup, on the inquiry form and in every email.

We may refuse service, or close an Account, where we reasonably believe these requirements are not met.

4. Accounts, users and security

- Account Owner. The Account Owner controls the Account, including billing, Team Member access, integrations, data export and closure. You may transfer ownership to another Team Member through the Service or by written request from the current Account Owner.
- Team Members. Each plan includes a maximum number of Team Members and crew profiles, shown on the Pricing page. Each Team Member must have their own login; sharing credentials is not permitted. You are responsible for assigning appropriate roles and permissions and for removing access promptly when a person leaves your business.
- Responsibility for users. You are responsible for all activity under your Account, including the acts and omissions of your Team Members and of Invited Users acting on your instructions, as if they were your own.

- Security of credentials. You must keep login credentials confidential, use a strong password or a supported single-sign-on provider, and notify us immediately at support@studio-cue.com if you suspect unauthorized access. We are not liable for losses caused by unauthorized use of credentials that results from your failure to keep them secure.
- Accurate information. You must keep your business name, contact details, billing information and the Account Owner's email address current. Notices we send to that email address are effective when sent.

5. The Service and your plan

Subject to the Agreement and payment of applicable fees, we grant you a non-exclusive, non-transferable, non-sublicensable right during the Subscription Term to access and use the Service, and to permit your Team Members and Invited Users to do so, solely for your internal business operations.

- Plans and limits. Your plan determines the features available to you and usage limits such as the number of Team Members, crew profiles, branded businesses and monthly AI actions. Limits are described on the Pricing page and in the Service. If you exceed a limit, we may ask you to upgrade, and some features may pause until the next billing period or until you upgrade.
- AI action allowance. Each plan includes a monthly allowance of AI actions. Unused allowance does not carry over. Additional usage may be offered as an add-on at the price shown in the Service.
- Add-ons. Optional add-ons, such as additional users, brands or usage, are billed as described when you purchase them and renew with your subscription unless removed.
- Beta features. Features we label as preview, beta or early access are provided "as is," may change or be withdrawn at any time and are excluded from any commitments in these Terms.

6. Free trial

New Customers may be offered a free trial (currently 14 days). A valid payment card is required to start a trial. You will not be charged during the trial. One free trial is available per business; we may decline a trial, or charge from the outset, where we reasonably believe a business has already used one.

When your trial ends, your paid subscription begins automatically and the card on file is charged the then-current price of the plan and billing interval you selected, unless you cancel before the trial ends. We will show the date the trial ends and the amount that will be charged before you start the trial, and in Settings → Plan & billing throughout the trial.

7. Fees, billing and automatic renewal

- Fees. You agree to pay the fees for your plan and any add-ons at the prices shown on the Pricing page or at checkout when you subscribe, as updated under this Section.
- Automatic renewal. Your subscription renews automatically at the end of each monthly or annual billing period for a period of the same length, and you authorize us to charge the payment method on file for each renewal at the then-current price, until you cancel. You can cancel at any time as described in Section 8.

- Billing in advance. Fees are billed in advance at the start of each billing period. Upgrades take effect immediately and are prorated for the remainder of the current period; downgrades take effect at the next renewal.
- Payment processing. Payments are processed by our payment processor, Stripe, Inc., subject to its terms. StudioCue does not receive or store full payment-card numbers. You authorize us and Stripe to store your payment method and to charge it as described in these Terms, and to update it with information from your card issuer where permitted.
- Price changes. We may change our prices. We will give the Account Owner at least 30 days' notice by email before a price increase applies to you. The new price takes effect at your first renewal after the notice period. If you do not agree, you may cancel before that renewal.
- Receipts and invoices. Receipts and invoices are available through the billing portal in Settings → Plan & billing.
- Currency. Fees are stated and charged in U.S. dollars unless we state otherwise at checkout.

8. Cancellation and refunds

- How to cancel. The Account Owner can cancel at any time online in Settings → Plan & billing, without contacting us. You may also cancel by emailing support@studio-cue.com from the Account Owner's email address; we will confirm cancellation in writing.
- Effect of cancellation. Cancellation stops the next renewal. Your access continues until the end of the billing period you have already paid for, after which the Account becomes read-only for the data-export period described in Section 27.
- Cancelling during a trial. If you cancel before the trial ends, you will not be charged.
- Refunds. Except as stated in this Section or required by law, fees are non-refundable and we do not provide refunds or credits for partial billing periods, unused time, unused allowances or downgrades.
- Annual plans — 14-day refund. If you cancel an annual plan within 14 days after the first charge for that annual plan (not a renewal), we will refund that charge in full on request to support@studio-cue.com.
- Our termination without cause. If we terminate your subscription for convenience under Section 27, we will refund any prepaid fees for the unused remainder of the then-current billing period.

9. Taxes

Fees exclude taxes. You are responsible for all sales, use, value-added, goods and services and similar taxes, duties and levies associated with your purchase, other than taxes on our net income. Where we are required by law to collect taxes, we will add them to your invoice unless you provide a valid exemption certificate.

10. Failed payments and suspension

If a payment fails, we and Stripe may retry the charge and will notify the Account Owner. You agree to update your payment method promptly.

- Grace period. For 7 days after a failed renewal payment, you will continue to have full access, with a notice in the Service.
- Read-only access. If the amount remains unpaid after the grace period, we may restrict the Account to read-only access: you and your Team Members can view and export Customer Data but cannot send communications, create or send documents or invoices, or start new automations. Communications and automations that would otherwise run on your behalf are paused and held, and resume when the Account is brought current.
- Cancellation for non-payment. If the amount remains unpaid after our payment retries are exhausted, your subscription may be cancelled and the Account treated as terminated under Section 27.
- Disputed charges. If you believe a charge is wrong, contact us within 60 days of the charge. Initiating a chargeback without first contacting us may result in suspension while the dispute is resolved.

11. Customer Data

- Ownership. As between you and us, you own all Customer Data. We do not acquire any ownership rights in Customer Data.
- License to us. You grant us a worldwide, non-exclusive, royalty-free license to host, copy, store, transmit, process, display and otherwise use Customer Data only as necessary to provide, maintain, secure and support the Service for you; to prevent or address technical, security or fraud issues; to comply with law; and as you otherwise instruct through the Service.
- Usage Data. We may collect and use Usage Data to operate, analyze, secure and improve the Service and to develop new features. We will not use Usage Data in a way that identifies you, your users or any individual to a third party, except as required by law.
- Your responsibility for Customer Data. You are solely responsible for the accuracy, quality, legality and appropriateness of Customer Data and for having all rights, licenses, notices and consents needed for us to process it under the Agreement.
- No sale. We do not sell Customer Data or Client Data, and we do not share it with third parties for their own advertising or marketing.
- Export. You may export Customer Data at any time during the Subscription Term, and during the export period after termination, using the export tools in Settings → Data & account.

12. Data protection and privacy

Our collection and use of personal information about you and your Team Members as our own customers is described in the Privacy Policy.

For Client Data, you are the business (or controller) that determines the purposes and means of processing, and we are your service provider (or processor). Our processing of Client Data is governed by the Data Processing Addendum, which forms part of these Terms and which you accept by accepting these Terms. Among other things, the Data Processing Addendum requires us to process Client Data only on your documented instructions, to keep it confidential and secure, to use only the subprocessors listed on our Subprocessors page, to assist you with individuals' requests, and to notify you of a personal-data breach without undue delay.

13. Your responsibilities and compliance with law

You are responsible for your use of the Service and for your business's compliance with all laws that apply to it, including:

- providing any privacy notices to, and obtaining any consents from, your clients, Invited Users, crew and other individuals that are required for you to collect their information and for us to process it on your behalf;
- laws governing commercial and transactional communications, including the CAN-SPAM Act and, where you send text messages, the Telephone Consumer Protection Act and state equivalents;
- consumer-protection, contract, automatic-renewal, deposit and cancellation laws that apply to your agreements and dealings with your clients;
- employment, independent-contractor, tax and insurance laws that apply to your crew and your business;
- laws relating to photography, recording and releases, including the rights of minors and of people who appear in your work; and
- keeping any records you are legally required to keep. The Service is not a substitute for your own record-keeping obligations.

You must not upload to the Service government identification numbers (such as Social Security numbers or driver's-license numbers), full payment-card or bank-account numbers, health or medical information, biometric identifiers, or information about criminal history, except as a necessary part of an insurance certificate or similar document that the Service is designed to handle. The Service is not designed to meet the requirements of laws governing such information, such as HIPAA or PCI DSS, and you must not use it for that purpose.

14. Acceptable use

You must comply, and ensure your Team Members and Invited Users comply, with our Acceptable Use Policy. In summary, you must not use the Service to break the law; send spam or deceptive communications; infringe others' rights; upload malware; access other customers' data; probe, test or disrupt the Service without our written permission; reverse-engineer it except as permitted by law; resell it; or circumvent plan limits. We may investigate suspected violations and take the actions described in the Acceptable Use Policy and in Section 27.

15. AI features

- How they work. The Service includes features that use artificial intelligence to draft replies, proposals and messages, summarize inquiries and consultations, propose schedules, extract information from documents and answer questions about your Account. These features run on Google's Gemini models through Google Cloud Vertex AI within our own Google Cloud project. We do not send Customer Data to any other AI provider.
- Human review required. AI Output may be inaccurate, incomplete, out of date or inappropriate. AI Output is a draft for your review. You are responsible for reviewing, editing and approving any AI Output before you rely on it or send it to anyone, and for the consequences of doing so. The Service is designed so that AI never sends client-facing communications, signs documents, records payments, changes permissions or marks work complete without a person's approval.
- No professional advice. AI Output is not legal, tax, accounting, insurance or other professional advice.
- No training on your data. We do not use Customer Data, Client Data or AI Output to train or fine-tune artificial-intelligence models, and our AI provider does not use them to train its models.
- Ownership. As between you and us, AI Output generated from your Customer Data is Customer Data. Similar output may be generated for other customers, and you acquire no exclusive rights in output that is not specific to your Customer Data.
- Allowance. Use of AI features counts toward your plan's AI action allowance (Section 5).

16. Electronic signatures and Customer Agreements

The Service lets you prepare Customer Agreements and have them signed electronically by you and your clients. Electronic signatures applied through the Service are designed to satisfy the U.S. Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (15 U.S.C. § 7001 et seq.) and state laws adopting the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act. Before signing, each client is shown, and must accept, our Electronic Signature Disclosure and Consent. For each signature, the Service records the signer's typed name, the email address with which the signer is authenticated, the date and time, the signer's IP address and device information, the version of the consent accepted and a cryptographic fingerprint of the exact document signed, and attaches that record to the signed document.

- You are the contracting party. Each Customer Agreement is solely between you and your client or other counterparty. StudioCue is not a party to, and is not responsible for the performance or enforcement of, any Customer Agreement.
- No legal advice; your content. We do not review or approve the content of Customer Agreements. Any template, clause, schedule or sample text we provide is for convenience only, is not legal advice and may not be suitable for your business or jurisdiction. You are solely responsible for the content of your Customer Agreements and for their legality and enforceability, including compliance with consumer-protection, deposit, refund, cancellation and disclosure laws. You should have your agreements reviewed by a lawyer licensed in your jurisdiction.
- Documents that must not be signed electronically. You must not use the Service for documents that the law does not permit to be signed electronically or that require notarization, witnessing or a specific form of delivery that the Service does not provide.

- Records. Signed Customer Agreements and their signature records are retained in your Account and are subject to Section 27 on termination. You are responsible for retaining your own copies for as long as you need them.

17. Invoices, payments and accounting services

The Service can create, send and track invoices and record payments through accounting and payment services that you connect, such as QuickBooks Online and QuickBooks Payments. StudioCue is not a bank, payment processor, payment facilitator or money transmitter, and never receives, holds or transmits funds paid by your clients. Payments are processed by the provider you connect, under its terms, and are deposited directly with you.

- You are solely responsible for your prices, deposits, retainers, payment schedules, taxes, refunds and invoice settings, and for resolving any payment dispute, chargeback or refund request with your clients.
- Amounts, due dates and tax calculations shown in the Service depend on your settings and on information from the connected provider. You should review invoices before sending them.
- If you enable automatic payment, you are responsible for obtaining your client's authorization in the form required by law and by your payment provider.

18. Third-Party Services and integrations

The Service may let you connect Third-Party Services. When you connect one, you authorize us to access, retrieve, store and transmit data in that Third-Party Service on your behalf as needed to provide the connected features, using the permissions you grant. Your use of each Third-Party Service is governed by its own terms and privacy policy, and its provider, not us, is responsible for it.

We do not warrant or support Third-Party Services, and we are not responsible for their availability, accuracy, security or changes, or for any data loss or charges arising from them. If a Third-Party Service changes or discontinues its interface, we may modify or discontinue the related integration without liability. You may disconnect an integration at any time in Settings → Integrations, which stops our further access to that Third-Party Service.

19. Communications sent through the Service

The Service sends email and other communications to your clients, Invited Users and crew on your behalf and under your business name. You are the sender of those communications for legal purposes and are responsible for their content, their recipients and your compliance with applicable law, including identifying your business and including a valid postal address where the law requires.

- You may send only transactional and relationship communications relating to work you have been engaged for or inquiries you have received, or other communications that recipients have agreed to receive. You must not use the Service for bulk marketing to people who have not asked to hear from you.

- We may decline to send, delay or suppress messages to addresses that have bounced, complained or unsubscribed, or that we reasonably believe would harm the deliverability or reputation of the Service.
- We do not guarantee delivery of any communication. Delivery depends on recipients' email providers and other factors outside our control.

20. Minors

Accounts and Team Member access are for adults only. The Service does not create accounts for children, does not send communications to children and does not use facial recognition. Where your work involves minors — for example, family sessions, school events or youth sports — the parent, legal guardian or responsible organization must be your client and the recipient of all communications. You are responsible for obtaining any consents, releases and authorizations required by law for photographing minors and for processing their information, and for entering only the minimum information about a minor that your work requires.

21. Invited Users

Invited Users access the Service at your invitation and for your business. Their use is subject to our Client and Crew Terms. You are responsible for the invitations you send, for the information you share with each Invited User, and for removing access when it is no longer appropriate. Your relationship with each Invited User, including any services you provide to them or they provide to you, is solely between you and them.

22. Confidentiality

Each party may receive non-public information from the other that is marked confidential or that a reasonable person would understand to be confidential ("Confidential Information"). Customer Data is your Confidential Information. Non-public features, pricing, security information and documentation of the Service are our Confidential Information.

The receiving party will use the other party's Confidential Information only to perform under or exercise its rights under the Agreement, will protect it using at least reasonable care, and will disclose it only to its employees, contractors and service providers who need to know it and are bound by confidentiality obligations at least as protective as these. Confidential Information does not include information that is or becomes public through no fault of the recipient, was known to the recipient without restriction, is independently developed, or is rightfully received from a third party without restriction. A party may disclose Confidential Information when required by law, after giving the other party reasonable notice where legally permitted.

23. Security

We maintain administrative, technical and physical safeguards designed to protect Customer Data, as described in the Data Processing Addendum. These include encryption in transit and at rest, logical separation of each customer's data, role-based access controls, least-privilege access for our personnel, secret management for integration credentials, audit logging, backups and monitoring. No system is completely secure, and we do not guarantee that unauthorized access will never occur. You are responsible for the security of your devices, your credentials and the systems you connect to the Service, and for configuring user permissions appropriately.

24. Intellectual property and feedback

- Our rights. The Service, including its software, design, text, graphics, templates, starter content, documentation and our trademarks, is owned by us or our licensors and is protected by intellectual-property laws. Except for the limited rights expressly granted in these Terms, we reserve all rights. Nothing in the Agreement transfers ownership of the Service to you.
- Templates. You may use, copy and adapt templates and starter content we provide within the Service for your own business. You may not resell or redistribute them as standalone products.
- Feedback. If you give us suggestions or feedback, you grant us a perpetual, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use them without restriction or compensation. We will not identify you as their source without your permission.
- Publicity. We will not use your business name or logo to identify you as a customer without your prior consent.
- Copyright complaints. We respond to notices of alleged copyright infringement as described in our Copyright Policy.

25. Availability, support and maintenance

We use commercially reasonable efforts to make the Service available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, except for planned maintenance, emergency maintenance, and events beyond our reasonable control. We will try to schedule planned maintenance to minimize disruption and to give advance notice of planned maintenance expected to cause significant downtime. We do not offer a service-level agreement or service credits unless agreed in a signed writing.

Support is available by email at support@studio-cue.com and through the in-app help and feedback tools. We aim to respond within one business day.

26. Changes to the Service

We continually develop the Service and may add, modify or remove features. We will not materially reduce the core functionality of your plan during a billing period you have paid for. If we remove a core feature of your plan, we will notify the Account Owner in advance; if you cancel because of that change within 30 days of the notice, we will refund prepaid fees for the unused remainder of the current billing period.

27. Term, termination and your data

The Agreement begins when you create an Account and continues until all subscriptions have ended and the export period has expired.

- Termination by you. You may cancel at any time under Section 8.
- Termination for cause. Either party may terminate the Agreement on written notice if the other party materially breaches it and does not cure the breach within 30 days after notice (10 days for non-payment).
- Suspension. We may suspend all or part of your access immediately, with notice where practicable, if: your use poses a security risk to the Service or others; you or your users violate the Acceptable Use Policy; we are required to do so by law or a government authority; or payment is overdue as described in Section 10. We will limit any suspension to the extent reasonably necessary and restore access promptly once the issue is resolved.
- Termination for convenience by us. We may terminate the Agreement for any reason on 60 days' written notice to the Account Owner, in which case Section 8 provides for a refund of prepaid fees.
- Export period. After your subscription ends for any reason other than our termination for your material breach or unlawful use, your Account will remain available in read-only mode for 30 days so the Account Owner can export Customer Data.
- Deletion. After the export period, we will delete Customer Data from the active Service. Residual copies in our backups are overwritten in the ordinary course and in any event within 90 days. We may retain information that we are required by law to keep (such as our billing records), information needed to resolve disputes or enforce the Agreement, and the signature records and audit logs described in the Privacy Policy for the periods stated there, all subject to the confidentiality obligations of these Terms.
- Survival. Sections 7 (as to amounts owed), 8, 9, 11 (as to export and Usage Data), 13, 16 (as to responsibility for Customer Agreements), 17, 22, 24, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 33 and 35, and any other provision that by its nature should survive, survive termination.

28. Warranties and disclaimers

We warrant that, during the Subscription Term, the Service will perform materially as described in our then-current documentation and that we will not materially decrease the overall security of the Service. Your exclusive remedy for breach of this warranty is for us to use reasonable efforts to correct the non-conformity or, if we cannot do so within a reasonable time, for you to terminate the affected subscription and receive a refund of prepaid fees for the unused remainder of the current billing period.

EXCEPT AS EXPRESSLY STATED IN THESE TERMS, THE SERVICE, AI OUTPUT, TEMPLATES AND ALL RELATED MATERIALS ARE PROVIDED "AS IS" AND "AS AVAILABLE." TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, WE AND OUR LICENSORS DISCLAIM ALL OTHER WARRANTIES, EXPRESS, IMPLIED OR STATUTORY, INCLUDING WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY, FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE, TITLE, NON-INFRINGEMENT AND ACCURACY, AND ANY WARRANTIES ARISING FROM COURSE OF DEALING OR USAGE OF TRADE. WE DO NOT WARRANT THAT THE SERVICE WILL BE UNINTERRUPTED OR ERROR-FREE, THAT ANY COMMUNICATION WILL BE DELIVERED, OR THAT READINESS CHECKS, REMINDERS, SCHEDULES OR AI OUTPUT WILL BE COMPLETE OR CORRECT. THE SERVICE DOES NOT PROVIDE LEGAL, TAX, ACCOUNTING OR INSURANCE ADVICE.

29. Limitation of liability

TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW:

1. NEITHER PARTY WILL BE LIABLE TO THE OTHER FOR ANY INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, CONSEQUENTIAL, EXEMPLARY OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES, OR FOR ANY LOSS OF PROFITS, REVENUE, BOOKINGS, BUSINESS, GOODWILL OR ANTICIPATED SAVINGS, OR FOR ANY LOSS OR CORRUPTION OF DATA, HOWEVER CAUSED AND UNDER ANY THEORY OF LIABILITY, EVEN IF ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES.
2. EACH PARTY'S TOTAL AGGREGATE LIABILITY ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THE AGREEMENT OR THE SERVICE WILL NOT EXCEED THE TOTAL FEES PAID AND PAYABLE BY YOU TO US FOR THE SERVICE IN THE TWELVE (12) MONTHS IMMEDIATELY BEFORE THE EVENT GIVING RISE TO THE LIABILITY, OR ONE HUNDRED U.S. DOLLARS (US $100) IF NO FEES WERE PAYABLE.
3. THE LIMITATIONS IN THIS SECTION DO NOT APPLY TO: YOUR OBLIGATION TO PAY FEES; YOUR INDEMNIFICATION OBLIGATIONS; EITHER PARTY'S LIABILITY FOR ITS GROSS NEGLIGENCE, WILLFUL MISCONDUCT OR FRAUD; OR LIABILITY THAT CANNOT BE LIMITED UNDER APPLICABLE LAW.

The parties agree that these limitations are an essential basis of the bargain and that the fees reflect this allocation of risk.

30. Indemnification

- By you. You will defend, indemnify and hold harmless StudioCue, its members, officers, employees and agents from and against any third-party claim, and all resulting damages, losses, fines, penalties, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, arising out of or relating to: (a) Customer Data, including any claim that it infringes or violates a third party's rights or that you lacked a necessary notice or consent; (b) your Customer Agreements and your services to, and dealings with, your clients, crew and vendors; (c) communications sent through the Service on your behalf; or (d) your or your users' violation of the Agreement or of applicable law.
- By us. We will defend you against any third-party claim alleging that the Service, as provided by us and used in accordance with the Agreement, infringes a United States patent, copyright or trademark or misappropriates a trade secret, and will pay damages finally awarded or agreed in settlement. We have no obligation for claims arising from Customer Data, Third-Party Services, AI Output you modify or use outside the Service, combinations with items we did not provide, or use in violation of the Agreement. If the Service is, or we believe it is likely to be, subject to such a claim, we may procure the right for you to continue using it, modify it to be non-infringing, or terminate the affected subscription and refund prepaid fees for the unused remainder of the current billing period. This paragraph states our entire liability for infringement claims.

- Procedure. The indemnified party must give prompt written notice of the claim, allow the indemnifying party to control its defense and settlement (except that no settlement may impose an obligation on the indemnified party without its consent, not to be unreasonably withheld), and provide reasonable cooperation at the indemnifying party's expense.

31. Governing law and disputes

- Informal resolution. Before filing a claim, each party agrees to try to resolve the dispute informally by written notice to the other (to us at support@studio-cue.com and the postal address in Section 33). If the dispute is not resolved within 30 days after notice, either party may proceed under this Section.
- Governing law. The Agreement and any dispute arising out of or relating to it or the Service are governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey, without regard to its conflict-of-laws rules. The United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods does not apply.
- Venue. Any action must be brought exclusively in the state courts located in Morris County, New Jersey, or the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, and each party consents to the personal jurisdiction of those courts. Either party may instead bring an individual claim in a small-claims court of competent jurisdiction.
- Injunctive relief. Either party may seek injunctive or other equitable relief in any court of competent jurisdiction to protect its intellectual property or Confidential Information.
- Waiver of jury trial. TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, EACH PARTY WAIVES ANY RIGHT TO A JURY TRIAL IN ANY ACTION ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THE AGREEMENT OR THE SERVICE.
- No class actions. TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, EACH PARTY MAY BRING CLAIMS AGAINST THE OTHER ONLY IN ITS INDIVIDUAL CAPACITY AND NOT AS A PLAINTIFF OR CLASS MEMBER IN ANY PURPORTED CLASS, CONSOLIDATED OR REPRESENTATIVE PROCEEDING.
- Time to bring claims. Any claim must be brought within one year after the cause of action arises, except claims for non-payment of fees or for infringement of intellectual-property rights, or where a longer period is required by law.

32. Export controls and sanctions

You will comply with all applicable export-control and sanctions laws in using the Service. You will not use, or permit the use of, the Service in or for the benefit of any country, region or person subject to U.S. sanctions or export restrictions.

33. Notices

We may give notices by email to the Account Owner's email address, by notice in the Service, or by post to the address you provide. You may give notices to us by email to support@studio-cue.com, with legal notices also sent by post or courier to FlawlessIQ LLC, Attn: Legal, 2 Green Village Rd, Suite 209, Madison, NJ 07940. Notices are effective when sent by email, when posted in the Service, or on delivery by post or courier.

You agree that all agreements, notices, disclosures and other communications we provide electronically satisfy any legal requirement that they be in writing.

34. Changes to these Terms

We may update these Terms from time to time. If we make a material change, we will notify the Account Owner by email and by notice in the Service at least 30 days before the change takes effect, unless the change is required sooner by law or relates to a new feature, in which case it takes effect when posted. The updated Terms will show a new version number and effective date. If you do not agree to a material change, you may cancel your subscription before it takes effect and, if you have prepaid for an annual plan, request a refund of prepaid fees for the unused remainder of the then-current billing period. Your continued use of the Service after a change takes effect constitutes acceptance of the updated Terms.

35. General

- Entire agreement. The Agreement is the entire agreement between the parties regarding its subject matter and supersedes all prior or contemporaneous agreements, proposals and representations. Terms in any purchase order or other document you provide do not apply.
- Assignment. You may not assign or transfer the Agreement without our prior written consent. We may assign the Agreement without consent in connection with a merger, acquisition, corporate reorganization or sale of all or substantially all of our assets or of the business to which the Agreement relates, with notice to you. Any attempted assignment in violation of this paragraph is void.
- Force majeure. Neither party is liable for any delay or failure to perform (other than payment obligations) caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, epidemics, war, terrorism, labor disputes, governmental action, utility or internet failures, or failures of third-party hosting or communications providers.
- Relationship. The parties are independent contractors. The Agreement does not create a partnership, joint venture, agency or employment relationship.
- No third-party beneficiaries. There are no third-party beneficiaries of the Agreement, including your clients and Invited Users.
- Severability; waiver. If any provision is held unenforceable, it will be enforced to the maximum extent permissible and the rest of the Agreement will remain in effect. A failure or delay in enforcing a provision is not a waiver of it.
- Interpretation. Headings are for convenience only. “Including” means “including without limitation.”

Privacy Policy

Version 2.2 · Effective October 8, 2026 · https://studio-cue.com/privacy

This Privacy Policy explains how FlawlessIQ LLC ("StudioCue," "we," "us" or "our") collects, uses, discloses, protects and retains personal information in connection with the StudioCue websites, applications, portals and related services (the "Service"), and the choices and rights available to you.

StudioCue is software for photography and video businesses. Some of the information in the Service is about the people those businesses work with. Section 2 explains how responsibility for that information is divided between StudioCue and each business.

1. Who we are and what this policy covers

FlawlessIQ LLC is a New Jersey limited liability company located at 2 Green Village Rd, Suite 209, Madison, NJ 07940, United States. You can contact us about privacy at support@studio-cue.com.

This policy applies to information we process: about visitors to studio-cue.com; about the businesses that subscribe to StudioCue ("Studios") and their owners, staff and contractors ("Studio Users"); and, as a service provider to Studios, about the people Studios work with. It does not cover the privacy practices of Studios themselves, or of third-party services that a Studio connects to StudioCue.

2. Studios and the people they work with

- Studio accounts. For information about Studio Users and website visitors, StudioCue determines how the information is used and is the business (or controller) responsible for it under this policy.
- A Studio's clients, crew and vendors. When a Studio puts information into StudioCue about the people and businesses it works for — for example couples, families, companies, teams and the people who contact the Studio — or about its crew, vendors and planners (together, "Client Data"), the Studio decides what is collected and why. StudioCue processes Client Data on the Studio's behalf and under its instructions, as its service provider (or processor), under our Terms of Service and Data Processing Addendum. The Studio's own privacy notice governs how it uses that information.

If you are a client, crew member or vendor of a Studio and want to access, correct or delete your information, please contact the Studio directly. If you contact us, we will refer your request to the Studio and assist it in responding as required by law. If you cannot reach the Studio, write to us and we will help.

4. How we use information

Purpose	What it involves
Providing the Service	Creating and maintaining accounts and workspaces; operating inquiries, proposals, agreements, invoices, questionnaires, schedules, crew coordination, galleries, reviews and portals; sending the communications Studios ask us to send
AI-assisted features	Drafting replies and documents, summarizing inquiries and consultations, proposing schedules and extracting details from documents, always for a person's review (Section 5)
Electronic signatures	Presenting agreements, capturing signatures and keeping evidence that they were made (Section 6)
Billing	Processing subscription payments, managing trials, renewals and cancellations, and keeping financial records
Sales and referrals	Responding to demo requests; understanding which channels bring Studios to StudioCue; applying a referral offer to a Studio that signs up with another Studio's code, and crediting the Studio that referred it. A Studio sees how many Studios signed up with its code and when, never which Studios they are
Support and communication	Responding to requests, sending service and account notices (such as trial reminders, security alerts and changes to our terms), and handling feedback
Security and integrity	Authenticating users, preventing fraud, spam and abuse, monitoring and investigating security incidents, and enforcing our terms
Improving the Service	Understanding how features are used, diagnosing errors and developing improvements, using de-identified or aggregated information wherever possible
Legal obligations	Complying with law, responding to lawful requests, and establishing, exercising or defending legal claims

We do not sell personal information, we do not share it for cross-context behavioral advertising, and we do not use it to make decisions that produce legal or similarly significant effects about any individual based solely on automated processing. StudioCue shows no advertising.

Vendor invitations: when a Studio leaves this setting on, a vendor that the Studio adds to a booked job (such as a planner, DJ or florist, never a venue or the Studio's client) receives one email from StudioCue inviting them to try StudioCue with that Studio's referral code. We use only the vendor's name and email address and the Studio's name, send it once to any address, never to someone who already has a StudioCue account, and never again to anyone who uses the unsubscribe link in it. A Studio can turn this off on its Subscription page.

With a Studio User's agreement we may send occasional product news. Every such email includes an unsubscribe link, and opting out does not affect service and account notices.

5. AI features and Google Limited Use

StudioCue's use of raw or derived user data received from Google Workspace APIs adheres to the Google API Services User Data Policy, including the Limited Use requirements. Google user data is not used, transferred, or sold to create, train, or improve foundational or generalized artificial-intelligence or machine-learning models, whether in raw, aggregated, anonymized, or derived form.

StudioCue's AI-assisted drafting and review features run on Google Vertex AI, using Google's Gemini models, inside StudioCue's own Google Cloud project in the United States. StudioCue integrates no third-party AI service providers, model gateways, model aggregators, or self-hosted models. Data obtained from the Google Calendar API is not sent to these features at all: they operate on the Studio's own StudioCue records, such as inquiry, project, package, questionnaire, and document data. We do not use Customer Data or Client Data to train or fine-tune AI models, and Google does not use data sent through Vertex AI to train its models. AI output is advisory and is never the authority for legal, payment, signature, permission, or readiness decisions, each of which requires a human decision.

6. Electronic signatures

When a Studio sends an agreement through StudioCue and a client signs it, StudioCue records, as evidence of each signature, the name typed, the email address the signer is signed in with, the date and time, the signer's IP address, and the device and browser used, together with the version of the electronic-signature consent they agreed to and a fingerprint of the exact agreement text. This record is kept with the agreement, printed on its signing record, and available to the signer, the Studio, and StudioCue to operate the service. It is retained for as long as the agreement is, so that the signature can be verified if it is ever questioned.

7. Google Calendar data

A Studio may connect its own Google Calendar so StudioCue can offer clients only consultation times the Studio is genuinely free, and place booked work on that calendar. StudioCue requests two Google OAuth scopes. The Google user data accessed under each is:

- https://www.googleapis.com/auth/calendar.freebusy — the free/busy availability of the primary calendar of the connected Google Account. StudioCue receives only the start and end times of periods marked busy. This scope does not permit reading the title, description, location, attendees, or any other content of a calendar entry, and StudioCue does not receive that content.

- https://www.googleapis.com/auth/calendar.events.owned — calendar events on calendars the connected Google Account owns. StudioCue creates consultation and event-day entries for that Studio's booked work, and reads, updates, or deletes those same entries when the Studio reschedules or cancels. It acts only on entries it created, identified by an event identifier stored with the corresponding consultation or project. It does not list a Studio's calendars or modify entries created by anyone else.

In addition to the calendar data above, StudioCue stores the OAuth access and refresh tokens issued for that Google Account, and for each entry it creates, the Google event identifier and event link.

How it is used. Free/busy availability is used to compute which consultation times to offer, and the event scope is used to keep the Studio's calendar in step with its bookings. Google user data is used only to provide these features for the authorizing customer. It is not sold, used for advertising, shared with unrelated customers, or used to train or improve generalized artificial-intelligence or machine-learning models. Google Calendar data is not sent to StudioCue's AI features.

How it is stored and retained. Free/busy availability is requested at the moment a set of consultation times is calculated and is not written to StudioCue's records. Event identifiers and links are retained for as long as the consultation or project they belong to exists. Access and refresh tokens are held server-side in managed secret storage and are never exposed to the browser.

How to stop and remove access. Disconnecting Google Calendar in StudioCue removes its reference to the stored credential and ends all further access to the Google Account, including availability reads and calendar writes. Revoking StudioCue from the Google Account permissions page invalidates the issued tokens directly. Removing an entry in Google Calendar does not change the corresponding record in StudioCue.

8. Zoom data

If a Studio connects Zoom, StudioCue processes OAuth authorization details and the meeting information needed to create, view, update, and cancel that Studio's Zoom meetings. Zoom information is used only to provide the connected workflow for the authorizing customer. It is not sold, used for advertising, shared with unrelated customers, or used to train AI models. Disconnecting Zoom in StudioCue ends further access; the Studio can also remove StudioCue from its Zoom App Marketplace settings.

9. Other connected services

- QuickBooks Online and QuickBooks Payments (Intuit). If a Studio connects QuickBooks, StudioCue creates and updates customers and invoices in the Studio's QuickBooks company and reads their payment status. Payment details entered by clients are collected and processed by Intuit, not by StudioCue.

- Dropbox. If a Studio connects Dropbox, StudioCue stores job documents the Studio chooses in a folder in the Studio's own Dropbox and reads them back when needed.
- Google Maps Platform. When someone types an address or venue, the text is sent to Google's Places service to suggest matching places.

Access tokens for every connected service are stored server-side in managed secret storage, encrypted, and never exposed to the browser. A Studio can disconnect any service at any time in Settings → Integrations.

10. Emails sent for Studios

StudioCue sends emails on behalf of Studios — for example inquiry acknowledgements, proposals, agreements, invoices, reminders, schedules and delivery notices — under the Studio's name. We record delivery events (such as delivered, opened, clicked or bounced) so the Studio knows whether a message arrived, and we may stop sending to addresses that bounce, complain or unsubscribe. Replies go to the Studio. If you no longer wish to receive emails from a Studio, contact the Studio or use the unsubscribe link where one is provided.

11. How we disclose information

We disclose personal information only as follows:

- Service providers (subprocessors) that host and operate the Service for us, under written contracts that restrict their use of the information to providing services to us and require appropriate security. They are listed, with their purpose and location, on our Subprocessors page.
- Within a Studio. Information in a Studio's workspace is available to that Studio's authorized users, and to the clients, crew and vendors the Studio chooses to share it with through the Service.
- Connected services that a Studio chooses to connect, as directed by the Studio.
- Legal and safety reasons, where we believe in good faith that disclosure is required by law, subpoena or other legal process, or is necessary to protect the rights, property or safety of StudioCue, our users or others, or to detect and prevent fraud or security issues.
- Business transfers, to a successor in connection with a merger, acquisition, financing, reorganization or sale of assets, subject to this policy or protections at least as strong.
- With consent, or at the direction of the person concerned.

We do not sell personal information and we do not share personal information for cross-context behavioral advertising, and we have not done so in the past 12 months.

12. Cookies and browser storage

StudioCue uses cookies and similar browser storage only to provide the Service: to keep you signed in, to secure your session, to protect forms from automated abuse (through Google reCAPTCHA Enterprise) and to remember preferences. We do not use advertising cookies, cross-site tracking or third-party analytics. Details are in our Cookie and Browser Storage Notice.

13. How long we keep information

Information	Retention
Studio workspace data (clients, jobs, agreements, documents, messages, files)	While the Studio's account is open. Studios can delete individual records or whole jobs at any time. When an account closes, the Studio has 30 days to export its data; the workspace is then deleted, and backup copies expire within 90 days
Signature evidence records	For as long as the signed agreement is retained in the Studio's workspace
Inquiries that do not become bookings	Until the Studio deletes them or the account closes
Studio User account details	While the user has access to any workspace, then deleted with the workspace or on request
Subscription billing and tax records	Seven years after the transaction, to meet tax and accounting obligations
Support and feedback correspondence	Up to three years after the matter is closed
Security and application logs	Up to 30 days, or longer only while needed to investigate a specific security incident
Browser error reports	Up to 30 days
Backups	Up to 84 days, then overwritten
Audit records of changes to agreements, payments and permissions	For the life of the related record, so that changes can be verified

We may keep information longer where required by law or to resolve a dispute or enforce our agreements, and we will delete or de-identify it when it is no longer needed.

14. Security

We use administrative, technical and physical safeguards designed to protect personal information, including: encryption in transit (TLS) and at rest; isolation of each Studio's data, enforced on every request; role-based permissions within each workspace; least-privilege access for our personnel; credentials for connected services held in managed secret storage; audit records for sensitive changes; automated backups; monitoring and alerting; and verification of webhooks from payment and integration providers. Our infrastructure is provided by Google Cloud, which maintains independent security certifications.

No method of transmission or storage is completely secure. If you believe your account or information has been compromised, contact us immediately at support@studio-cue.com. We will notify affected Studios and individuals of a breach of personal information as required by law.

15. Where information is processed

StudioCue is operated from the United States, and personal information is stored and processed in the United States on Google Cloud. The Service is intended for businesses in the United States. If you use it from another country, your information will be transferred to, stored and processed in the United States, where data-protection laws may differ from those in your country.

16. Your choices

- Account information: Studio Users can review and update profile details in the Service.

17. Your privacy rights

Depending on where you live, you may have the right to:

- know or confirm whether we process your personal information, and access it;
- receive a copy of it in a portable format;
- correct inaccurate information;
- delete it;
- opt out of the sale of personal information, sharing for cross-context behavioral advertising, targeted advertising and certain profiling (we do not engage in any of these);
- limit the use of sensitive personal information (we use it only as permitted for providing the Service, security and legal compliance);
- withdraw consent where processing is based on consent; and
- not be discriminated against for exercising these rights.

How to make a request

Email support@studio-cue.com with the subject “Privacy request,” or write to us at 2 Green Village Rd, Suite 209, Madison, NJ 07940. Tell us which right you wish to exercise and how we can reach you. We will verify your request by matching information you provide with information we hold, and may ask for additional information where necessary. You may use an authorized agent; we may require written proof of the agent’s authority and verification of your identity. We will respond within 45 days, and may extend that by a further 45 days where reasonably necessary, in which case we will tell you why.

If your request concerns Client Data held by a Studio, we will refer it to that Studio and support its response (see Section 2).

Appeals

If we decline your request, you may appeal by replying to our decision or emailing support@studio-cue.com with the subject "Privacy appeal." We will respond within 45 days. If you are not satisfied with the outcome, you may contact your state attorney general or privacy regulator.

18. Additional information for California residents

This section supplements this policy for California residents under the California Consumer Privacy Act, as amended ("CCPA"). In the past 12 months we have collected the following categories of personal information, for the purposes described in Section 4, from the sources described in Section 3, and disclosed each for business purposes to the categories of recipients shown:

Category (CCPA)	Collected	Disclosed for a business purpose to
Identifiers (name, email, phone, IP address, account identifiers)	Yes	Service providers; the Studio concerned; connected services a Studio chooses
Customer records (address, billing details, signature)	Yes	Service providers; the Studio concerned
Commercial information (plans, purchases, invoices)	Yes	Service providers (payment processing); the Studio concerned
Internet or network activity (usage, logs, error reports)	Yes	Service providers (hosting, security)
Approximate geolocation (from IP address)	Yes	Service providers (security)
Audio, visual or similar (images and files uploaded)	Yes	Service providers (hosting); the Studio concerned
Professional information (role, business, crew details)	Yes	Service providers; the Studio concerned
Sensitive personal information (account log-in credentials)	Yes, for authentication only	Service providers (authentication)
Biometric, health, precise geolocation, government ID	No	—
Inferences used to profile individuals	No	—

We retain each category for the periods in Section 13. We do not sell or share personal information, and we do not knowingly sell or share the personal information of consumers under 16. We use sensitive personal information only for purposes permitted by the CCPA. We do not offer financial incentives in exchange for personal information.

Shine the Light. California residents may request information about disclosures of personal information to third parties for their direct-marketing purposes. We make no such disclosures.

19. Additional information for residents of other U.S. states

Residents of states with comprehensive consumer-privacy laws — including Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia — have the rights described in Section 17, to the extent those laws apply. We do not sell personal data, process it for targeted advertising, or use it for profiling in furtherance of decisions that produce legal or similarly significant effects. We do not process sensitive data except as necessary to provide the Service or as permitted by law. You may appeal a decision as described in Section 17.

Nevada. We do not sell covered information as defined under Nevada law.

20. Children

The Service is intended for businesses and adults. Accounts are available only to people 18 and older. We do not knowingly collect personal information directly from children under 13, and we do not create accounts for, send communications to, use facial recognition on or publish profiles of children. When a Studio's work involves minors — for example family sessions, school events or youth sports — the parent, guardian or organization is the Studio's client and the person who interacts with the Service, and a child's name appears only where the Studio enters it. If you believe a child has provided personal information to us directly, contact support@studio-cue.com and we will delete it.

21. Do Not Track and Global Privacy Control

Because we do not sell or share personal information, or track users across other websites for advertising, there is nothing for a Do Not Track or Global Privacy Control signal to switch off. We nonetheless treat a Global Privacy Control signal as a valid request to opt out of sale and sharing for the browser that sends it.

22. Changes to this policy

We may update this policy from time to time. The version and effective date at the top of this page identify the current version. If we make a material change, we will notify Studio account owners by email and by notice in the Service before it takes effect.

Data Processing Addendum

Version 1.0 · Effective October 5, 2026 · https://studio-cue.com/legal/dpa

This Data Processing Addendum (“DPA”) forms part of the StudioCue Terms of Service between FlawlessIQ LLC (“StudioCue”) and the Customer (the Studio). It applies automatically when the Customer accepts the Terms and governs StudioCue’s processing of Client Data on the Customer’s behalf. Capitalized terms not defined here have the meanings given in the Terms.

1. Definitions

- “Data Protection Laws” means all U.S. federal and state privacy and data-protection laws applicable to the processing of Client Data under the Agreement, including the California Consumer Privacy Act as amended and comparable state consumer-privacy laws.
- “Client Data” has the meaning given in the Terms and includes all personal information, personal data and similar terms as defined in Data Protection Laws, within Customer Data.
- “Process” means any operation performed on Client Data, such as collection, storage, use, disclosure, transmission and deletion.
- “Subprocessor” means any third party engaged by StudioCue to process Client Data.
- “Security Incident” means a breach of security leading to the accidental or unlawful destruction, loss, alteration, unauthorized disclosure of, or access to, Client Data processed by StudioCue.

2. Roles and scope

The Customer is the business (or controller) and StudioCue is the service provider (or processor) with respect to Client Data. The Customer determines the purposes and means of processing Client Data. The details of processing are set out in Annex 1. Each party will comply with the obligations that apply to it under Data Protection Laws.

The Customer is responsible for the lawfulness of the Client Data it provides and of its instructions, including providing any required notices to, and obtaining any required consents from, individuals, and for ensuring that its instructions comply with Data Protection Laws.

3. Processing on instructions

StudioCue will process Client Data only on the Customer’s documented instructions, which consist of: the Agreement; the Customer’s use and configuration of the Service; and any further written instructions agreed by the parties. StudioCue will inform the Customer if, in its opinion, an instruction violates Data Protection Laws, and is not required to follow such an instruction. StudioCue may process Client Data where required by law, in which case it will inform the Customer before processing unless the law prohibits it.

4. U.S. state-law service-provider terms

With respect to Client Data, StudioCue certifies that it understands and will comply with the following restrictions. StudioCue will not:

- sell or share Client Data, as those terms are defined in Data Protection Laws;

- retain, use or disclose Client Data for any purpose other than the business purposes specified in the Agreement, including for any commercial purpose other than providing the Service, or outside the direct business relationship between StudioCue and the Customer;
- combine Client Data with personal information it receives from or on behalf of another person or collects from its own interactions with individuals, except as permitted by Data Protection Laws (for example, to detect security incidents or protect against fraud); or
- use Client Data to train or improve artificial-intelligence models.

StudioCue will provide the same level of privacy protection as required of the Customer by Data Protection Laws, will notify the Customer if it determines that it can no longer meet its obligations under those laws, and grants the Customer the right, on notice, to take reasonable and appropriate steps to stop and remediate unauthorized use of Client Data.

5. Confidentiality and personnel

StudioCue will ensure that personnel authorized to process Client Data are bound by appropriate obligations of confidentiality, receive appropriate training, and have access only to the Client Data necessary to perform their duties.

6. Security

StudioCue will implement and maintain appropriate technical and organizational measures to protect Client Data against Security Incidents, taking into account the state of the art, the costs of implementation and the nature, scope, context and purposes of processing. These measures include, at a minimum, those described in Annex 2. StudioCue may update its measures from time to time provided that the update does not materially decrease the overall protection of Client Data.

7. Subprocessors

The Customer gives StudioCue general authorization to engage Subprocessors. StudioCue's current Subprocessors are listed on the Subprocessors page, which identifies each Subprocessor, its purpose and location. StudioCue will:

- enter into a written agreement with each Subprocessor imposing data-protection obligations no less protective than those in this DPA, to the extent applicable to the services provided;
- update the Subprocessors page at least 15 days before authorizing a new Subprocessor to process Client Data, except where an emergency replacement is needed to maintain the Service, in which case StudioCue will update the page as soon as practicable;
- remain responsible for each Subprocessor's compliance with its obligations.

The Customer may object to a new Subprocessor on reasonable data-protection grounds by emailing support@studio-cue.com within 15 days after the update. The parties will discuss the objection in good faith. If StudioCue cannot reasonably accommodate it, the Customer may terminate the affected subscription and receive a refund of prepaid fees for the unused remainder of the then-current billing period.

Third-Party Services that the Customer chooses to connect (such as Google Calendar, Zoom, QuickBooks Online or Dropbox) are engaged by the Customer, not by StudioCue, and are not StudioCue's Subprocessors; data flows to them at the Customer's direction.

8. Assistance with individuals' requests

Taking into account the nature of the processing, StudioCue will assist the Customer by appropriate technical and organizational measures, insofar as possible, in responding to requests from individuals to exercise their rights under Data Protection Laws. The Service provides tools for the Customer to access, correct, export and delete Client Data. If StudioCue receives a request from an individual relating to Client Data, it will promptly refer the individual to the Customer and will not respond directly except to confirm the referral or as required by law. StudioCue will also provide reasonable assistance with any data-protection assessments and consultations with regulators that the Customer is required to carry out in relation to the Service.

9. Security Incidents

StudioCue will notify the Customer without undue delay, and in any event within 72 hours, after becoming aware of a Security Incident affecting the Customer's Client Data. The notice will be sent to the Account Owner's email address and will describe, to the extent known: the nature of the incident; the categories and approximate number of individuals and records concerned; the likely consequences; and the measures taken or proposed to address it. StudioCue will take reasonable steps to contain, investigate and mitigate the incident, will provide updates as information becomes available, and will reasonably cooperate with the Customer's legal obligations to notify individuals or authorities. Notification is not an acknowledgement of fault or liability.

10. Return and deletion

During the Subscription Term, the Customer may export and delete Client Data using the Service. After termination, StudioCue will make Client Data available for export for 30 days, and will then delete it from the active Service, with residual backup copies overwritten within 90 days, except where retention is required by law. Signature evidence records retained with signed agreements, and audit records needed to demonstrate compliance, are deleted with the workspace they belong to.

11. Information and audits

StudioCue will make available to the Customer, on reasonable written request no more than once in any 12-month period (or following a Security Incident or a regulator's request), information reasonably necessary to demonstrate compliance with this DPA, which may include responses to a reasonable security questionnaire, summaries of StudioCue's security measures, and certifications or reports of its infrastructure providers. Any further audit will be at the Customer's expense, on at least 30 days' notice, during business hours, subject to confidentiality obligations and in a manner that does not compromise the security of the Service or other customers' data.

12. Location of processing

StudioCue stores and processes Client Data in the United States. If the Customer is subject to laws that restrict transfers of personal data to the United States, the Customer must not use the Service for such data unless the parties have first agreed appropriate transfer terms in writing.

13. Liability and precedence

Each party's liability arising out of or relating to this DPA is subject to the limitations of liability in the Terms. In the event of a conflict between this DPA and the Terms regarding the processing of Client Data, this DPA prevails. This DPA remains in effect for as long as StudioCue processes Client Data on the Customer's behalf.

Acceptable Use Policy

Version 1.0 · Effective October 5, 2026 · https://studio-cue.com/legal/acceptable-use

This Acceptable Use Policy ("AUP") describes what is and is not permitted when using StudioCue. It forms part of the Terms of Service and applies to every Customer, Team Member and Invited User. We may update it as described in the Terms.

1. Lawful and honest use

You must use the Service only for lawful business purposes. You must not use the Service to:

- violate any applicable law or regulation, or encourage others to do so;
- deceive, defraud or mislead anyone, including by misrepresenting your identity, your business, your prices or your availability;
- harass, threaten, defame, discriminate against or intimidate any person;
- facilitate the sale of illegal goods or services; or
- engage in any activity that would expose StudioCue or its users to legal liability.

2. Email and other communications

- Send communications only to people with whom you have, or are establishing, a business relationship — such as people who have made an inquiry, booked you, or work with you — or who have otherwise agreed to hear from you.
- Do not send unsolicited bulk or marketing messages (spam), purchased or rented lists, chain messages or messages with misleading subject lines, sender names or headers.
- Honor opt-out and unsubscribe requests promptly, and include any identification and postal address the law requires.
- Do not use the Service to send text messages without the prior consent required by the Telephone Consumer Protection Act and applicable state law.
- Do not attempt to circumvent bounce handling, suppression lists or sending limits.

3. Content

You must not upload, store, send or share through the Service any content that:

- infringes or misappropriates any copyright, trademark, trade secret, right of publicity or other right of any person, including images you do not have the right to use;
- is obscene, sexually exploits anyone, or depicts or sexualizes minors in any way (we report child sexual abuse material to the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children and to law enforcement);
- is defamatory, hateful, violent or promotes self-harm;
- contains viruses, malware or other harmful code; or
- includes the sensitive categories of information prohibited by Section 13 of the Terms, such as Social Security numbers, full payment-card or bank-account numbers, or health information.

4. Security and integrity of the Service

You must not, and must not attempt to:

- access any account, workspace, data or system you are not authorized to access, including another Customer's data;
- probe, scan or test the vulnerability of the Service, or breach or circumvent any security or authentication measure, without our prior written permission (to report a vulnerability, see Section 7);
- interfere with or disrupt the Service, including through denial-of-service attacks, excessive automated requests, or overloading our infrastructure;
- use bots, scrapers or other automated means to access the Service, except through interfaces we provide for that purpose;
- reverse-engineer, decompile or disassemble the Service, except to the extent permitted by law notwithstanding this restriction;
- copy, frame or mirror any part of the Service, or build a competing product using the Service or our Confidential Information; or

- share login credentials, resell or sublicense access, or circumvent plan limits, usage allowances or billing.

5. AI features

- Review AI Output before relying on it or sending it; do not present AI Output as professional advice.
- Do not use AI features to generate content that violates this AUP, or attempt to manipulate them into revealing other customers' information, system instructions or security details.
- Do not use AI features to make decisions about individuals that have legal or similarly significant effects without meaningful human review.

6. Minors

When your work involves minors, the parent, guardian or responsible organization must be your client and the person you communicate with through the Service. Do not invite minors as users, collect more information about a minor than your work requires, or share a minor's information or images except as authorized by the parent, guardian or organization and permitted by law.

7. Reporting abuse and vulnerabilities

Report suspected violations of this AUP, or a security vulnerability, to support@studio-cue.com. We appreciate good-faith security research that avoids privacy violations, data destruction and service disruption, is reported to us promptly, and gives us reasonable time to fix the issue before disclosure; we will not pursue legal action against researchers who act in that way.

8. Enforcement

We may investigate suspected violations of this AUP. Depending on the severity, we may remove or disable content, suspend sending, restrict features, suspend or terminate the Account, and report conduct to law enforcement or affected third parties, as provided in the Terms. Where practicable and lawful, we will notify you and give you an opportunity to remedy the issue before taking action, except where immediate action is needed to protect the Service, other users or third parties.

Cookie and Browser Storage Notice

Version 1.1 · Effective October 8, 2026 · https://studio-cue.com/legal/cookies

This notice explains the cookies and similar technologies (such as local storage, session storage and IndexedDB) that StudioCue uses on studio-cue.com and in the Service. It supplements our Privacy Policy.

In short: StudioCue uses only the storage it needs to work and to stay secure. We do not use advertising cookies, we do not track you across other websites, and we do not use third-party analytics.

1. What these technologies are

Cookies are small text files a website stores in your browser. Local storage, session storage and IndexedDB are similar mechanisms that let a web application keep information on your device between visits. “First-party” storage is set by StudioCue; “third-party” storage is set by another provider whose service is embedded in ours.

2. What StudioCue uses and why

Category	Purpose	Set by	Duration
Strictly necessary — sign-in	Keeps you signed in and identifies which workspace you are using, so the Service can show you your data and no one else’s	StudioCue (Firebase Authentication, in IndexedDB and local storage)	Until you sign out, or as long as your session remains valid
Strictly necessary — security and abuse prevention	Verifies that requests come from the genuine StudioCue app and a real person, protecting sign-in, inquiry and signing forms from automated abuse	Google reCAPTCHA Enterprise (Firebase App Check)	Up to 6 months (Google’s _GRECAPTCHA cookie), and short-lived tokens
Functional — preferences	Remembers choices such as dismissed notices, the last workspace you opened, unsent drafts and view preferences	StudioCue (local and session storage)	Until you clear site data, or the end of the browsing session
Functional — how you found us	Remembers the link that brought you to StudioCue (campaign tags, the site that linked here, and any referral or promotion code) so that, if you create a studio, we know which channel to credit and which studio referred you. It stays in your browser and reaches us only if you create a studio. Nothing is kept when your browser sends Global Privacy Control	StudioCue (local storage)	Until you clear site data
Functional — offline access	Lets crew open an event-day schedule they have already viewed if their connection drops	StudioCue (service worker cache)	Until replaced or you clear site data

Google’s use of the information collected through reCAPTCHA is governed by the Google Privacy Policy and Google Terms of Service.

Error reports: if StudioCue encounters an error in your browser, it sends us a short technical report of the error, the page and your browser type. Email addresses, links and identifying details are removed before the report is stored. No cookie or identifier is used for this.

3. What StudioCue does not use

- No advertising or retargeting cookies, pixels or tags.

- No third-party analytics or session-recording tools.
- No social-media tracking plugins.
- No sale or sharing of information collected through cookies.

4. Your choices

Because StudioCue uses only strictly necessary and functional storage, there is no cookie banner and nothing to opt into. You can block or delete cookies and site data through your browser settings; however, blocking strictly necessary storage will prevent you from signing in and using the Service. Clearing functional storage resets your preferences. Global Privacy Control signals are honored as described in our Privacy Policy.

5. Changes and contact

If we begin using a new category of cookie or storage, we will update this notice before doing so and, where the law requires, ask for your consent. Questions: support@studio-cue.com.

Client and Crew Terms

Version 1.0 · Effective October 5, 2026 · https://studio-cue.com/legal/client-terms

These terms apply to you if a photography or video business (your "Studio") has invited you to use StudioCue — for example to view a proposal, sign an agreement, pay an invoice, complete a questionnaire, review a schedule, receive a gallery link, or, as crew, accept work and view event details. StudioCue is provided by FlawlessIQ LLC. By using StudioCue at a Studio's invitation, you agree to these terms.

1. Your relationship is with your Studio

StudioCue is software your Studio uses to run its business. Your Studio, not StudioCue, provides the photography, video or other services you have booked, sets its prices and policies, decides what information to collect, and is responsible for its agreements, invoices and communications with you. StudioCue is not a party to any agreement between you and your Studio and is not responsible for the Studio's services, conduct, availability or obligations. Please direct questions about your booking, payments, refunds, schedule or deliverables to your Studio.

2. Your access

- Your access is provided by your Studio and lasts for as long as the Studio keeps it open. The Studio can change or end your access at any time.
- Keep your sign-in link and account secure, and do not share them. If you sign in with a magic link, anyone with access to your email may be able to sign in, so keep your email account secure.
- You must be at least 18 to create an account. Where a booking concerns a minor, the parent, guardian or responsible organization should use StudioCue on the minor's behalf.

- You may use StudioCue only for your dealings with the Studio that invited you, and in accordance with our Acceptable Use Policy.

3. Your information

Information you provide through StudioCue — such as your contact details, event details, questionnaire answers, messages and files — is shared with your Studio and processed by StudioCue on the Studio's behalf. The Studio's privacy notice describes how it uses your information. Our Privacy Policy explains how StudioCue handles it, including what we record when you sign electronically. To access, correct or delete your information, contact your Studio; you may also contact us and we will help.

4. Signing electronically

If your Studio sends you an agreement to sign, you will be asked to accept our Electronic Signature Disclosure and Consent before signing. You may ask your Studio for a paper copy, or to sign on paper, at any time, free of charge.

5. Payments

If you pay an invoice through a link in StudioCue, your payment is processed by your Studio's payment provider (for example QuickBooks Payments) under that provider's terms. StudioCue does not receive or hold your payment or your card or bank details. Questions about charges, refunds or payment plans should go to your Studio.

6. Crew, planners and vendors

If you use StudioCue as crew, a planner or a vendor, your engagement, pay, insurance, tax status and working arrangements are solely between you and the Studio. StudioCue is not your employer or agent and does not guarantee any offer of work. Treat client and event information you see as confidential and use it only to perform your work for the Studio.

7. Disclaimers and liability

StudioCue is provided to you free of charge by your Studio's subscription, "as is" and "as available." To the fullest extent permitted by law, StudioCue disclaims all warranties, and is not liable for any indirect or consequential damages or for any loss arising from your dealings with your Studio. Nothing in these terms limits any rights you have under consumer-protection laws that cannot be waived.

8. General

These terms are governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey. We may update them; the version and effective date above identify the current version, and your continued use after an update means you accept it. Questions about StudioCue: support@studio-cue.com.

Electronic Signature Disclosure and Consent

Version 2 · Effective October 5, 2026 · https://studio-cue.com/legal/esign

Studios use StudioCue to send agreements that their clients sign electronically. Before signing, each signer is shown the disclosure below and must confirm the statement in Section 1. This page reproduces the current version exactly. The version a signer accepted is recorded with their signature.

1. The statement the signer confirms

> I can open and read this agreement on this device. I agree to receive it and sign it electronically, and that my typed name is my signature.

2. The disclosure

What you're agreeing to. You're choosing to receive this agreement, and the signed copy and signing record that go with it, electronically, and to sign it electronically instead of on paper. Your typed name, together with the record of when and how you signed, has the same effect as a handwritten signature. This consent covers this agreement only. Anything else your studio sends you is between you and them.

Paper instead. You don't have to sign electronically. Before you sign, you can simply not tick the box and message your studio; they'll arrange a paper copy to sign instead. After you sign, you can ask your studio for a paper copy of the signed agreement at any time, free of charge, by replying to any of their emails or messaging them from this portal.

Changing your mind later. You can withdraw this consent at any time by messaging your studio. Withdrawing doesn't undo a signature you've already given or change the agreement; it means any further copies or documents for this agreement will be given to you on paper.

What you'll need. A phone, tablet or computer with a current version of Safari, Chrome, Edge or Firefox; an email account; and a way to open PDF files, which is built into most devices. You'll know your device works because you're reading this agreement on it now. If these requirements change in a way that could stop you opening your signed agreement, you'll be told by email before the change takes effect.

Your copy. Once you sign, a copy of the complete agreement, with both signatures and its signing record, is emailed to you and stays available in this portal. Keep your email address up to date with your studio so your copy and any notices reach you.

What we record when you sign. As evidence of your signature, StudioCue records the name you type, the email address you're signed in with, the date and time, your IP address, and the device and browser you're using. It's kept with the agreement and printed on its signing record, and it's available only to you, your studio, and StudioCue to run the service. See studio-cue.com/privacy.

3. The studio’s signature

The studio signs first, when it sends the agreement, by typing its signer's name and confirming: "I'm signing this agreement for the studio, electronically, and my typed name is my signature." The client's signature then completes the agreement.

4. Legal framework

Electronic signatures through StudioCue are designed to comply with the U.S. Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (15 U.S.C. § 7001 et seq.) and state laws based on the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act. The agreement itself is between the studio and its client; FlawlessIQ LLC provides the signing technology and is not a party to it. See our Terms of Service and Privacy Policy.

Subprocessors

Version 1.0 · Effective October 5, 2026 · https://studio-cue.com/subprocessors

FlawlessIQ LLC uses the service providers below to operate StudioCue. Each receives only the information it needs to perform its service, under a written agreement that requires it to protect that information. As described in our Data Processing Addendum, we update this page at least 15 days before a new subprocessor begins processing Client Data.

1. Subprocessors used for every Studio

StudioCue respects the intellectual property of others, and photographers above all. We respond to notices of alleged copyright infringement that comply with the Digital Millennium Copyright Act (17 U.S.C. § 512).

1. Reporting infringement

If you believe material hosted on StudioCue infringes your copyright, send a written notice to our designated agent that includes:

1. your physical or electronic signature;
2. identification of the copyrighted work you claim is infringed;
3. identification of the material you claim is infringing, with information reasonably sufficient for us to locate it (such as a URL);
4. your name, address, telephone number and email address;
5. a statement that you have a good-faith belief that the use is not authorized by the copyright owner, its agent or the law; and
6. a statement, under penalty of perjury, that the information in the notice is accurate and that you are the copyright owner or authorized to act on the owner's behalf.

2. Designated agent

Appendix B — Electronic signatures

1. How signing works

1. The studio owner reads the agreement, types their name, confirms they are signing for the studio, and sends it. Studio statement: "I'm signing this agreement for the studio, electronically, and my typed name is my signature."
2. The client receives an email, signs in to their portal (their own account, email address verified), and reads the agreement on screen.
3. Under the agreement: the consent checkbox, a "Read the full terms of signing electronically" link that expands the disclosure, a field to type their full name, and a Sign agreement button. Nothing is signed until they tick the box, type a name and press the button.
4. The agreement is identified by a SHA-256 fingerprint of its exact text. The page sends the fingerprint of what it displayed; if the stored text differs, the signature is refused.
5. On signing, a PDF is generated with both signatures and a certificate page (below), emailed to the client as an attachment, and kept in their portal.

A studio may instead choose to have StudioCue apply the owner's typed name automatically when a proposal is accepted (off by default). Turning that on requires the owner to type their name and agree that "StudioCue may apply it for me to each contract sent when a proposal is accepted."

2. What we record with each signature

Typed name · email address signed in with · whether that email is verified · sign-in method · date and time (server clock) · IP address · device and browser (as reported by the browser) · consent version id and a SHA-256 hash of its exact words · the agreement's fingerprint. All of it prints on the certificate page of the signed PDF. Records are append-only: no one, including the studio, can edit or delete a signature record through the product. The privacy policy now has a section describing this (studio-cue.com/privacy, "Electronic signatures").

3. The consent, both versions

Shown to every signer before they sign; the version accepted is recorded with the signature. Published at https://studio-cue.com/legal/esign. Questions 7–15 in Section 3 are about it.

Current: esign-consent-v2

Confirmation the signer ticks: I can open and read this agreement on this device. I agree to receive it and sign it electronically, and that my typed name is my signature.

- What you're agreeing to. You're choosing to receive this agreement, and the signed copy and signing record that go with it, electronically, and to sign it electronically instead of on paper. Your typed name, together with the record of when and how you signed, has the same effect as a handwritten signature. This consent covers this agreement only. Anything else your studio sends you is between you and them.
- Paper instead. You don't have to sign electronically. Before you sign, you can simply not tick the box and message your studio; they'll arrange a paper copy to sign instead. After you sign, you can ask your studio for a paper copy of the signed agreement at any time, free of charge, by replying to any of their emails or messaging them from this portal.
- Changing your mind later. You can withdraw this consent at any time by messaging your studio. Withdrawing doesn't undo a signature you've already given or change the agreement; it means any further copies or documents for this agreement will be given to you on paper.
- What you'll need. A phone, tablet or computer with a current version of Safari, Chrome, Edge or Firefox; an email account; and a way to open PDF files, which is built into most devices. You'll know your device works because you're reading this agreement on it now. If these requirements change in a way that could stop you opening your signed agreement, you'll be told by email before the change takes effect.
- Your copy. Once you sign, a copy of the complete agreement, with both signatures and its signing record, is emailed to you and stays available in this portal. Keep your email address up to date with your studio so your copy and any notices reach you.
- What we record when you sign. As evidence of your signature, StudioCue records the name you type, the email address you're signed in with, the date and time, your IP address, and the device and browser you're using. It's kept with the agreement and printed on its signing record, and it's available only to you, your studio, and StudioCue to run the service. See studio-cue.com/privacy.

Previous: esign-consent-v1 (kept: earlier signatures name it)

Confirmation the signer ticks: I agree to sign this agreement electronically, and that my typed name is my signature.

- You are agreeing to use electronic records and an electronic signature for this agreement instead of paper. Your typed name, together with this record of when and how you signed, has the same effect as a handwritten signature.
- You can ask your studio for a paper copy at any time, free of charge, by replying to any email from them or sending a message from this portal.
- You can decline to sign electronically before you sign. To do that, don't tick this box — message your studio instead and they will arrange another way to sign.

- Once signed, a copy of the complete agreement is emailed to you and stays available in this portal. To open it you need a current web browser and an email address; a PDF reader lets you save or print it.
- If your email address changes, update it with your studio so your copy and any notices reach you.

How version 2 differs, against ESIGN §7001(c)

We understand §7001(c) applies only where another law requires information to be provided to a consumer in writing, which a photography services agreement usually does not. We wrote v2 to meet it anyway.

Element	v1	v2
Right to a paper copy, and any fee (§7001(c)(1)(B)(iv))	Paper copy on request, free	Same, before and after signing
Right to withdraw consent, procedure, and consequences (§7001(c)(1)(B)(i), (iii))	Only "decline before you sign"	How to withdraw at any time, and that withdrawal doesn't undo a signature already given
Scope of the consent (§7001(c)(1)(B)(ii))	Not stated	"This consent covers this agreement only"
How to update contact information (§7001(c)(1)(B)(iii))	Present	Present
Hardware and software requirements (§7001(c)(1)(C)(i))	"a current web browser"	Named browsers, email, PDF viewer
Consent in a manner that reasonably demonstrates access (§7001(c)(1)(C)(ii))	Implicit (they are reading it)	Checkbox affirms "I can open and read this agreement on this device"
Notice if requirements change (§7001(c)(1)(D))	None	Email before the change takes effect
What is recorded (privacy)	None	Listed, with a link to the privacy policy

4. The certificate page (example)

Each signed PDF ends with a "Certificate of completion — Signing record": agreement id; studio; document fingerprint (SHA-256); agreement version; for each signer — name as typed, role, email, date and time, sign-in method, IP address, device, consent version; and a history (prepared, studio signed and sent, opened by the client, signed). A real example from our own test can be provided on request.

5. The two-signature booking agreement (held for your review)

Today a client accepts the studio's proposal (the pricing), and the studio then sends its agreement to sign. With this option on, the studio sends one booking agreement in two parts, and the client signs both in one sitting:

- Part 1, Terms & conditions: the studio's own agreement.
- Part 2, Your coverage: the packages, extras, total and payment schedule from the proposal.
- Certificate: the signers, IP address and device, the consent version, and the fingerprints.

The studio reads both parts and signs each one before sending. The client reads part 1 and signs it, then reads part 2 and signs it. Both signatures are saved together or neither is. Signing them accepts the proposal and signs the agreement in one step. Each signature records the fingerprint of its own part and of the whole document, so neither part can be swapped out later. The client can't accept the proposal on its own once it's in a booking agreement. The sealed PDF groups the signatures by part. Question 17 is about this.

Appendix C — Wording StudioCue writes into studios' contracts

StudioCue is not a party to these agreements. Each studio writes or adopts its own agreement; StudioCue supplies a starting point and fills in job details. What follows is every piece of wording StudioCue itself contributes.

books on the Client's behalf when asked, and coordinates vendors, but is not a party to their contracts and does not pay vendors for the Client. The Planner is not responsible for any vendor's performance, products or conduct.

Added after Schedule A, only to agreements for these kinds of event, in the words of the studio's trade. Live since October 14 (bar/bat mitzvah) and October 15 (quinceañera, Sweet 16). Questions 23–30 are about it.

- Children: Many guests at a mitzvah are children. The Studio will not use images of the honoree, or of any other child from this event, in its portfolio, website, social media, competitions or advertising unless the Client agrees in writing. The images delivered are for the family's personal use.

5. Booking amendments

A signed booking changes only through an amendment the client signs. The amendment restates the whole agreement beneath this preamble (source: `functions/src/contracts/amendments.ts`, `amendedDocument`):

> What this changes
> This amends the agreement signed on {date}. It changes only what is listed here; the agreement below restates everything as it stands after the change, and replaces the earlier version once both parties sign.
> - {each change, one line}
> The agreement as amended

6. Pricing clauses

When a studio's own wording states a price (e.g. "$4,500" or "a 25% retainer"), StudioCue flags the line and asks the studio to replace it with `{{price.total}}` / `{{price.retainer}}`, so the proposal and agreement cannot disagree. Nothing is changed for them. Source: `features/contracts/pricing-clauses.ts`.

7. Corporate starter agreement (draft, not offered to studios yet)

Status: draft for counsel review. Not offered in the product. Once approved, it would be offered (like the wedding starter in `agreement-text.md`) to a studio that has no corporate agreement of its own. The studio adopts and edits it; StudioCue is not a party.

Why a separate starter: GR Productions confirmed corporate work needs a signed agreement (family and sports sessions do not), and corporate clients ask different questions from couples — commercial usage rights, invoicing on terms, insurance, confidentiality and releases for employees on camera.

Fields in `{{…}}` are filled from the job (the same merge fields as every StudioCue agreement). Bracketed text marks a choice the studio makes.

This Photography Services Agreement (the "Agreement") is made on {{contract.date}} between {{studio.legal_name}}, of {{studio.address}} (the "Studio"), and {{client.names}} (the "Client") for {{event.type}} coverage of {{event.name}} on {{event.date}} at {{event.venue}} (the "Event").

1. Services
The Studio will provide the {{package.name}}: {{package.coverage}}. Deliverables: {{package.deliverables}}
Coverage beyond the hours above, additional locations, or work requested after the Event (for example extra retouching) is quoted and agreed in writing before it is done.

2. Client responsibilities
The Client will (a) give the Studio a schedule, a shot list and a single on-site contact at least [7] days before the Event; (b) arrange access, permits, parking and any venue approvals; (c) tell the Studio of any restrictions on photography, including people, areas or materials that must not be photographed; and (d) obtain any consents its employees, guests or speakers need to give before being photographed, unless the parties agree in writing that the Studio will collect releases.

3. Fees and payment
The total fee is {{price.total}}, payable as follows: {{payment.schedule}}
Invoices are due [within 30 days of the invoice date]. Overdue amounts accrue interest at [1.5% per month] or the highest rate allowed by law, whichever is lower, and the Studio may withhold delivery of final images while an undisputed amount is overdue. The Client pays any reasonable costs of collecting overdue amounts. Fees exclude sales tax, which is added where it applies. Purchase order numbers or vendor registration the Client needs must be supplied before the Event; their absence does not delay payment.

4. Changes, postponement and cancellation
A change to the date, hours or scope must be agreed in writing; fees are adjusted to match. If the Client cancels [more than 30] days before the Event, the retainer is retained and nothing further is owed; [within 30 days], [50%] of the total fee is owed; [within 7 days], the full fee is owed. A postponement to a date the Studio can cover, requested at least [14] days ahead, is not a cancellation; the retainer moves to the new date once. If the Studio cannot perform because of illness, injury or an emergency, it will make reasonable efforts to provide a qualified replacement photographer; if it cannot, it refunds all amounts paid, which is the Client's sole remedy.

5. Delivery
Edited images are delivered by online gallery within [10 business days] of the Event, or as stated in the deliverables. The Studio selects and edits images in its professional judgment and is not obliged to deliver unedited files. The Studio keeps the delivered images for at least [90 days] after delivery; the Client is responsible for downloading and keeping its own copies.

6. Ownership and licence
The Studio owns the copyright in all images. On payment in full, the Studio grants the Client a non-exclusive, perpetual, worldwide licence to use, reproduce and display the delivered images for the Client's own [internal and external marketing, communications, social media, websites and press] purposes. The licence does not include (a) resale, sublicensing or transfer of the images to third parties other than the Client's agencies working on its behalf; (b) use in paid advertising placements beyond [the Client's own channels]; or (c) use by sponsors, vendors or speakers in their own promotion — each of which needs a separate written licence. The Client will credit the Studio where credits are customarily given. Until payment in full, no licence is granted.

7. Releases and recognisable people
Unless the parties agree in writing that the Studio collects model releases, the Client is responsible for obtaining any consent or release needed for its intended use of images showing recognisable people, and for complying with its own policies on photographing employees, guests and minors. The Studio may decline to photograph any person who asks not to be photographed.

8. Studio's portfolio use
The Studio may use a limited selection of images in its portfolio, website and social media [unless the Client asks in writing, before the Event, that it does not]. The Studio will not use images that show confidential information, and will remove a portfolio image on the Client's reasonable request.

9. Confidentiality
Each party will keep confidential any non-public information it receives from the other in connection with the Event, use it only to perform this Agreement, and protect it with reasonable care. This does not cover information that is public, already known to the recipient, independently developed, or required to be disclosed by law.

10. Insurance
The Studio carries general liability insurance of at least [$1,000,000 per occurrence] and will provide a certificate of insurance naming the Client or venue as additional insured on request, at least [5] business days before the Event.

11. Liability
The Studio is not responsible for images it could not take because of venue restrictions, the Client's schedule, weather, lighting, or the conduct of people at the Event. The Studio's total liability arising out of this Agreement is limited to the fees paid under it. Neither party is liable to the other for indirect, incidental, special or consequential damages, or lost profits, except for a breach of Section 9 or a party's indemnity obligations. Each party indemnifies the other against third-party claims arising from its own negligence or wilful misconduct, and the Client indemnifies the Studio against claims arising from the Client's use of images beyond the licence in Section 6 or from the Client's failure to obtain consents under Section 7.

Questions for counsel

1. Is the licence scope in §6 a sensible default for corporate clients, and should "paid advertising" be carved out by default or left to the studio?
2. §7 puts releases on the client by default. Is that the right default, and does any state's law (e.g. biometric or employee-privacy statutes) need a mention?
3. Late-payment interest and collection costs (§3): enforceable as drafted across US states, or should the studio pick a rate per state?
4. Mutual indemnities (§11): appropriate for a small studio, or should the studio's indemnity be capped with the liability cap?
5. Schedule A (`{{event.details}}`) carries the event details; for corporate jobs there is no "lock" date (job-kinds: only weddings lock). Does the agreement need any wording about late schedule changes beyond §4?
